If the rumour to which the Northern papers give currency, to the effect that Tso Tsung-TANG, the Chinese General sent to oppose sequence of this difference of opinion a fight Yacoos Bro, has been cut off and killed, should prove correct, it is likely to lead to serious consequences. All the news bitherto received from the seat of war has been of an unsatisfactory nature for the Chinese. From the very first, Tso has been fet. made from leaf hitherto reserved for Green Tea, tered by the want both of men and money, and it has been an exceedingly difficult matter for the Peking Government to find him supplies of either. He has We are told the owners expect to get 80 to 35 lately, it is stated, received reinforcement of soldiery from Shensi, Shansi, Hupeh, and Szechuen but only a small proportion of the new levies can lay the slightest chim to be considered as disciplined or efficient Fighting is reported to be still going on, and the Chineso are admitted to be getting the worst of it. The war is boing gradually pushed into China, and unless the Chinese you, in the case of the P. and O. Company Government makes a grand effort and sends prompt relief to its baffled forces, the Ameer's army will soon be on the march for Peking. It is possible that the victor may be induced to accept terms and retire to Kashgar, or he through the medium of the Press. may, perhaps, flushed with his recent successes, refuse to treat with the Imperial Government and determine to engage in a contest for supremacy. The example of the worth while to attempt to follow it. Should he do se, war a outrance will be declared. foretell. On the one lland the invading army is immensely superior to the Chinese verpment might perhaps succeed in arousing a spirit of fanatical hatred among the people against the Mahomedans, and render it a religious war, in which case the Ameer would be confronted with fresh and countless hordes, and ultimately be driven back by mero force of numbers. But it is for more probable that the Peking Authorities will endeavour to make speedy terms with YACCOR Buo, since the campaign has always been unpopular with an influential section of the officials, who will now, doubtless, strenuously advise pacific overtures. But whatever may be the outcome of this, war, it is potent to foreigners and natives alike that the rule of the Manchus in China is by no means so firmly rooted as it was a few years back.

In another column will be found, reproduced from one of our Shanghai contemporaries. some suggestive hints on the mode of living adopted by foreigners in the Model Settlement. Without fully endorsing all its remarks on the subject, there is much truth in a great deal of what is stated. While we should hesitate to recommend foreigners to brave the rays of the moonday sun with no more protection than a fan, there can be case, which was accordingly remanded until no possible doubt that they would be less liable to sunstroke if they lived in a simpler manner. As a rule, foreigners both eat and drink too much. What is applicable to Shanghai applies equally, if not with greater force, to Hongkong. Instead of regulating their diet according to the climate, are addicted to high feeding and copious libations. It is a well known fact that the same. too frequent indulgence in artificial drinks only aggravates the thirst they are intended to allay. Highly-spiced dishos and alcoholic liquors both create heat, and, by partaking too freely of them, fuel is added to the fire. Plain food, and that of a non-heating character, should be taken by foreigners, who might in this particular take a lesson from the natives. Rice is certainly not very tempting or tasty lood, but plenty of good dishes can be devised which are neither heavy nor unpalatable. By paying attention to their to cook as well as act as seaman, which he the Oslaviatische Zeitung, for that is the name diet, and practising a little self-denial, oreigners in China can do much to contribute both to their health and comfort during the long hot summer before them.

SIR HARRY S. PARKES'S NOTIFICA-

TION IN JAPAN. "A Japanese writes ha follows to the Commingr :- Some Boglish newspapers speuk against the notification recently issued by Sir Harry S. Parkes, the British Ministerin Japan, prohibiting English subjects from publishing iewepapers in the Japanese language. In this dountry, those who do not know the circumstances under which the notification was issued. or the relation which exists between Japan and England, may, perhaps, conour in the opinion expressed by a writer in the Japan Herald, that his is not in strict accordance with "the liberty of the English entirest and the freedom of the press." Therefore I as a native of Japan, think it my duty to inform the British public that there her finger-nails." . are circumstances which fully justify Sir Harry S. Parks in complying with the request made by the Jupanese Government. If all the English Drouot, the prices were anneally high for the people in Japan were subject to the laws of our ountry, then, perhaps, it would not be at all necessary to issue this notification. But such is not the case: they are not under the control of the Tananese Government, and whatever they may do in our country, the Japanese laws are quite owerless., Suppose an Englishman establish newspaper in the Japanese language, and publish a gross libel against Japanese Governor any individual, by violate the press regulations of our country, we have no power to punish him, because he is not amenable to Jupanese anthority. This will certainly "cause grave injury to the public interest of Japan," as the notification itself justly says. If one of the Japanse residents in England were to publish a newspaper in English, and refused to be subject to the laws of this country, would the English Government or people permit him to go on publishing the newspaper in defiance of the English laws? I presume not. Why, then, should such injurious immunity be conceded to the English in Japan P. Shrely this is not in accordance with the idea of equity, the sentiment of international respect, and the conception of an enlightened liberty. So long as the ex-territorial inrisdiction exists—that is to say. so long as the English in Japan are not subject to the laws of our country—it is, to say the very least, expedient to probibit them from publishing newspapers in the Japanese language. Under these circumstances, I, with many others, think that Sir Harry S. Parkes was perfectly right in preventing anyone from setting up a newspaper in defiance of the laws of Japan, and in thus enforcing that reasonable respect which is duc Storm. export of silkworms' eggs. But shortly after this the probibition was raised. No doubt in consequence of the rapidity with which the disease spread, the Persians had good reason to hope they would export more diseased than sound eggs to Europe. In 1867 the disease had made such progress in Chilan, Mazanderan, and Astrabad that Japanese eggs had to be imported. The silk thus produced proved of THE MERCHANTS' inferior quality, and the stock, moreover, ultimately degenerated. english and chinese dictionary. PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An ANGLO-CHINESE DICTIONARY, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

TOR comprehensiveness and practical service | Twenty Years, and is, as to Editorial Manage-L this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is Charge for Advertisaments will be as heretofully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond A Discount of Twenty per cent. (20 %) upon in the size of body, thereby effecting a vest economy of space, schieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration. Jhalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese charac-ters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli-eations and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who under a stands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in Rugland and interested in It comprises upwards of two thousand large Messre. CHY-LAN & Co.

TIGHTLY KEPT STUDENTS. The Yale Freshman had a time of it in the eighteenth century. In Scribber for April there in an article on the College, by Henry A. Beers, who quotes from the old regulations:-"Every student," runs one of the old laws, "shall be called by his sir name, except he be the son of a nobleman, or a knight's eldest son." As between the college classes, a strict subordination was coforced and a somewhat laborious etiquette prevailed between faculty and students. The freshmen were almost in the condition of fags in the English public schools. The following statutes from a book of "Freshman Laws" seem incredible, but were gravely meant, and put in practice.—"The freshmen, as well as other undergraduates, are to be uncovered, and are forbidden to wear their hats (unless in stormy weather) in the front door-yard of the President or Professor's house, or within ten rods, of the person of the President, eight rods of the Professor, and five rods of a tutor. "" A freshman shall not play with any members of an upper class without being asked." "Incase of personal insult, a junior may call up a freshman and reprehend him. A sophomore, in like case, must obtain leave from a senior, and then he may discipline, a freshman." "Freshmen shall not run in college. yard, or up or down stairs, or call to anyone through a college window."
